OMPARE at JULIAN GOLDMAN!

Miss Anne Tennant. Past presidents, Charles Shaw, Mrs. Clarence Woman Who Has Valentine, Harold Fearer and Har-Jealous Husband Is Rarely Happy

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm a girl of 17 and very much in love with a boy of 24. He's my first boy friend and I've been going with him for two years.

"He never lets me associate with girls with whom I work. We never go anywhere except to a show and hen usually end up quarreling. This goes on for several days and we quarrel at work. I'd quit my job, but then I wouldn't see him every day, and I love him too much for that.

"He is very jealous of me. I try my best to agree with him in every-thing but it doesn't help. I know it's very foolish to keep fussing, but he accuses me of things I'd never think of doing. We are both wasting the best part of our lives.

It's fortunate you're beginning to realize how unsuitable this boy would be as a husband. I doubt if any woman is really very hap-pily married to a jealous man. They see and suspect evil in the most innocent things. And this one seems to have a worse case of the green-eyed monster than the average.

It's unthinkable that a normal man should object to his girls associating with others in the same department. Does he imagine you need nothing but his jealous, faultfinding, quarreling companionship?

Jealousy is a form of fear. And unless a person can live down this sense of inferiority and feel sure he can hold his own with the best of them, he'll go through life a jealous defeatist. In imagination someone is always trying to take something he lacks the ability to have and to hold.

One of the first things a girl should learn is not to be a carbon copy of anyone—don't be a "yes-man." Your morbid desire "to agree with him in everything," only adds fuel to his jealous egoism. That sorriest type of woman-a human doormat—never gets very far in life. Cultivate a little independence

Public Desire for Big Peacetime Army and Navy Shown by Survey

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP PRINCETON, N. J., June 12-II public opinion for a large post-war army and navy continues to be as overwhelming after the war as it is now, the issue of whether we should may largely settle itself. Tests of opinion by the Institute show that the average American wants a post-war 2,000,000 men and a post-war navy approximately 1.000.000 men-as protection gainst the possioility of sudden and unprovoked attack. There are only Dr. George two ways, observers agree, to achieve such a peacetime force-by continuing the present selective service system which draws men from all ages up to 35, or by adopting compulsory military training in peacetime of all men before they reach the age of 21 or 22. Hearings on a peacetime draft are now being held in Washington by the House committee on post-war military

If there were strong public sen iment for disarmament after this war on a scale comparable to the disarmament that followed the last war, one could expect to find widespread public opposition to the idea of a peacetime draft. But with preparedness the popular concept-preparedness in terms of a million man navy and two-million mar army-it is not surprising to find that the public approves by a large vote a peacetime draft which would give one year's military or naval training to all able-bodied young

The trend of sentiment on the as measured by the Institute polls, follows:

55 Years Young and still growing

The Woodmen Society reached its 55th birthday June 6. It is not, however, 55 years old, but 55 years YOUNG, and still growing. It enjoyed its greatest year of growth in the past quarter of a century last year, with net gains of 8,639 members and $19,969,000 in insurance in force. Its assets, exceeding 146 million dollars, make it the world's financially-strongest traternal beneficiary society.

A "DREAM COME TRUE"

The Woodmen Society is, indeed, a "dream come true" . . . the dream of its founders in 1890 that Woodcraft would provide safe, sound insurance protection, together with the many "plus" benefits of fraternalism, to scores of thousands of men and boys. That goal has been realized. The Society now has several hundred thousand members, holding nearly 400 million dollars of Woodmen insurance protection, enrolled in more than 8,000 local Woodmen Camps in 44 states. It also has provided free, healthrestoring care to more than 3,500 tubercular members at Woodmen War Memorial Hospital, San Antonio, Texas.

Ask your local Woodmen representative to tell you about the various types of Woodmen legal reserve life insurance certificates that will provide for your financial security. Let him tell you, too, about the many fraternal and social advantages you will receive as a member of the Woodmen of the World.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION The object in this se is to obtain a decree divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, a vinculo matrimonii, and for Defendant, a vinculo matrimonii, and for general relief.

The Bill of Complaint states that the Plaintiff, Beatrice Ursula Pagenhardt, was married to the Defendant, Norris Mason Pagenhardt, at Westernport, Maryland, in 1924 and that one child, a daughter, now 20 years of age has been born to this marriage. That on May 15, 1925, without any just cause or reason, the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff. That said desertion and separation has continued uninterruptedly for more than twenty years and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That for more than twenty years the whereabouts of the Defendant, Norris Mason Pagenhardt, have been unknown to the Plaintiff and that she can get no information as to whether he is living or dead. That the Plaintiff is now a resident of Luke, Allegany County, Maryland, and has resided there continuously since the year 1925. The Bill of Complaint them

New Type Mallet Hauls Passenger Train on B. & O.

Eliminates Helper Engines, Extra Crews on Third Division

Mallet type locomotives, heretoexclusively in freight trains, are now being used with success in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's passenger service between Cumberland and Grafton, W. Va., it was revealed yesterday by railroad officials.

One of the giant locomotives No. 7620 — has been taking train No. 29 express on its westward journey from Cumberland to Grafton and on the return trip east brings passenger train No. 12 here.

The biggest advantage in using the mallet type engines is the fact that no helper engines or additional crews are required on the steep mountain grades on the Third divi-
